

POSITION DESCRIPTION

Portland YouthBuilders

Construction Trainer

POSITION SUMMARY

Portland YouthBuilders is a non-profit vocational alternative high school and a residential general contractor, seeking a qualified Construction Trainer. Students are culturally diverse, low-income young adults aged 17-24 years. This state certified pre-apprenticeship program integrates academic education with hands-on construction training on actual construction sites providing a rich, disciplined and transformative learning environment.

The Construction Trainer will supervise and instruct crews of students in the new construction and remodeling of affordable housing. They are responsible for daily oversight, organization, safety and quality control of work performed on assigned projects. The Construction Trainer works in partnership with other construction staff to plan daily crew assignments, plan project schedules, and share teaching responsibilities. They will also work on teams with academic teachers, counselors and career development professionals in a collaborative effort to help students develop personal skills and overcome barriers as they strive to define and prepare to achieve their career goals.

Women and people of color are strongly encouraged to apply.
